THE NORTHERN TRIBUNE AN INDEPENDENT WEEKLY

Published every Thursday at Grande Prairie, Alberta. The Tribune's aim is to thoroughly "cover" the local news field with fairness to all sections and parties; also to aid in the development of the Peace River Country and to make known its "Northern Empire" many advantages as a home-land. All news is printed without intentional distortion. The paper's opinions are expressed only in its editorial columns.

Letters for publication are welcomed. A pen name may be used, though correspondents must also sign their proper names, not necessarily for publication, but as evidence of good faith, in publishing a communication. The Tribune does not imply agreement with any opinions contained therein.

NEW ERA IN AVIATION

With the invention of the "flea" type of aeroplane, which is easily manipulated, a new era in aviation is about to be ushered in.

Up to the present flying has cost too much money to be taken advantage of by the average person. Now, along comes a new type of machine which can make 30 miles on a gallon of gas and, we understand, almost fool-proof.

Heavy Ford made a success of his business because he first produced an automobile which came within the purchasing power of the common people. Now it would seem that as far-reaching results are possible in the air by the invention of the "flea" type of machine.

It is not far from a stretch of imagination to predict that the time is not far distant when flying machines will be just as popular and numerous in our own Peace River as automobiles are today.

It is not too fanciful to picture a time when instead of a farmer and others stepping into their auto they will hop into a flying machine to pay a friend a visit or do their business and then hop home again.

Low cost of construction and simplicity of operation will make all this possible.

The local Flying Club, which was recently organized, has been congratulated on anticipating the future and for having decided to be among the first on the continent to construct the new type of machine.

Possibly no other town has better natural advantages to become an aviation center than Grande Prairie, which has an admirable lake field and adjacent numerous lakes which can be used. This fact was demonstrated during the recent flying machine rally, when mail was brought in by planes which utilized Bear Lake as a landing place.

The club will need some money and the project should be heartily supported, especially by residents of Grande Prairie.

There is another reason why the club should be encouraged, and that is the necessity of having a plane stationed here in case of an emergency in the outlying districts. This was demonstrated during the time the forest patrol was stationed here when on several occasions the various pilots acted as angels of mercy and brought in injured people in a few hours to the hospital from outlying points when this was the essence in saving lives.

The Grande Prairie club is fortunate in having as its members three key men who will be able to give valuable assistance: Jim McDonald, a former member of the Royal Air Force and who holds an engineer's certificate; Jack Neve of Rexnith, who built his own machine and is now a pilot; J. W. Neil, expert navigator and one who has taken a deep interest in aviation.

With these three men joining together, and with the assistance and support of an enthusiastic membership with the proper financial support, the project cannot help but succeed.

It should be mentioned that Jack Neve on several occasions has gone into the wilds and brought people to the hospital. This is just further evidence that a plane is necessary in this district.

Again we say that the local Flying Club should receive the hearty support of all residents.

MERELY A SUGGESTION

As I read the wires from day to day concerning Italy and Ethiopia, it would appear that Mussolini is just spoiling for a fight and has determined to have one, and has picked the subjects of the "King of Kings" with whom to do battle. And to do this battling, so the wires say, he has one million men under arms.

The dictator of Italy reminds me of a man I know of in the East who had been spoiling for a fight for some time. The feeling grew to a point when one day he went down the road and stood in front of a neighbor's home and shouted: "Come on out and fight!"

Now the suggestion which I would humbly make—and at this distance I am sure it is a "King of Kings" suggestion—is that the "King of Kings" be asked to make it in this: Let King's busy subjects be turned loose in a big room and engaged in a catch-as-catch-can affair with everything allowed with the exception of sitting off an ear.

On second thought, possibly this would be a better suggestion, considering that the two countries are hard pressed for that commodity known as money. Then a natural thought comes to mind: Let the two countries go so far away and charge so much a head to see the scrap.

I would further suggest that guns be not allowed and bullets, darning needles and backing the blades of the letter not to exceed an inch and these weapons be that the fight should be a considerable period of time and worth. If this could be arranged, the attendance would make the crowd at the Bull-Louis fight look like the attendance at a village fair.

Of course, no doubt it will cause some of the long and of the purse, with loss or draw.

The money so derived would enable the Italian dictator to rescue the nation's finances. The black man would return with his smaller share, perfectly satisfied, having almost nothing. He would be satisfied, and the world which has been in a cold sweat for months would settle down again.

The average Italian has no quarrel with the Ethiopians, so why should the common people of that nation be called upon to melt under a tropical sun and expose their bosoms to the bullets and spears of the enemy?

Reader, doesn't the whole thing seem absurd when the disagreement could be settled by the dictator and a black man tussling under the rules suggested? Both would have ample opportunity to use the verminous of the street to strut their stuff.

Personally I would be inclined to bet on the subject of the "King of Kings."

The matter of whether or not the battle should go to a finish or be fought by rounds is a detail that could be worked out by the two combatants, no doubt prefer a finish fight without any stops.

IN THE TRIBUNE'S MAIL BOX

To the Editor of The Tribune:

I would like to extend my congratulations to Mr. Sharpe, the present member-elect, for removing the Land Office from the basement of the courthouse and giving it roomier quarters on the main street.

Grande Prairie city has a certain dignity of its own—it has fine school buildings, courthouses, hospitals, etc., and it was nothing short of an insult, not alone to Grande Prairie city but to the whole north country south of the Peace, when our Land Office was relegated to a cellar.

In passing, let me bring to the attention of Mr. Sharpe, the incumbent of the office in Grande Prairie, Mr. J. Redmond, a former senior in the Land Department, is detailed to a sub position at the salary of a junior clerk and that, although he is a returned man, Mr. Redmond has always carried on and performed his duties to all and sundry with a pleasant and courteous attitude on the main street.

Mr. J. Redmond knows nothing of this letter. I write it because it is how we must use our money, as well as being unfortunate in being a returned man, is fortunate, we think in not being a politician. So we trust that if any changes are made that actual merit and a courteous treatment of the general public will be recognized and Mr. Redmond will receive a position of trust under Mr. Sharpe's government, which he certainly has won for himself.

Thanking you, I am,
J. C. MACLEAN,

REMINISCENCES

By I. V. Macklin

My old second-hand binder didn't need any haywire yesterday, the day we were cutting had not been flattened by the wind and rain, and the day was exceptionally fine.

Your humble servant got to thinking it was just over a quarter of a century ago that he and his old team, wandering alone the trail from the Peace River to the side of the Mountain, first caught sight of that beautiful stretch of country known as Grande Prairie.

We are now in an exceptionally important political battle, to which, on account of an unfortunate accident, I have been called to give my attention. I just wanted to recall conditions as they existed in the north country long ago as regards elections. It is hard to say how much of the date was not necessarily elected to the north country. Such corrupt practices as stuffing ballot boxes were sometimes indulged in, resulting in the election of a candidate other than the majority wished. But many years ago there was a great clean-up; the man was sent to jail and others involved in the case to the United States. As a result of that clean-up, the whole north country south of the Peace was now in the hands of the majority of citizens.

For this situation there is one man whom we have to thank more than any other. That man had the nerve to stand up in Ottawa and demand an investigation under the Corrupt Practices Act. His name is D. M. Kennedy.

There has been a tendency in Canada to think of lawbreaker in the showing of goods across the border between the United States and Canada was robbing the Canadian treasury yearly of six or seven million dollars. Not only that, but reputations were being ruined and the companies which paid the duty would go broke by being underbilled by the smugglers. There had been investigations before with little subsequent results or improvement.

In the investigation of the customs which happened ten years ago there was a man who was expected to cover up the corruption, to whitewash the customs officials as had been done before, but he did not. He tore off the lid to the corruption of the Canadian public. The sensation created was only slightly less than that created by the Stevens name. D. M. Kennedy, because well known in every part of Canada, was not only a man of high character, but he was a man who had been convicted of a crime and had been sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary.

It is said by some that if he had been convicted of a crime and had been sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary, he would have been a man of high character, but he was a man who had been convicted of a crime and had been sentenced to a term of years in the penitentiary.

On the price spreads committee which has been set up to investigate the situation of the Canadian public, the farmers of Alberta were represented by one of their number who is physically capable of standing the days and months of grind on such a duty.

This farmer became one of the chief supporters of the chief investigator, Mr. Stevens. Again corruption in high places has been laid bare to the public gaze. In no small measure is this again due to the backing given to this course on the committee by this northern farmer, whose name is D. M. Kennedy.

The man who steals a loaf of bread to keep his children from starving is severely dealt with. But the men who by fraud have stolen millions from the Canadian people and brought ruin to the state of semi-starvation and public charity, these men have in the past been given little and public notice. It is time to be unhealthily for some of these birds when the Canadian people awake and know who has stolen their birthright.

Through his labors on the price spreads committee D. M. Kennedy has done his full share to awaken the people of Canada. It is not one for speculation, but it is a man who has the most power. Some very powerful engines run very smoothly. He has not been a man of devotion to duties that are often difficult and of faithful service to the people. LAKE SASKATOON

DANCE A SUCCESS
LAKS SASKATOON, Oct. 1.—The dance put on in the G. W. V. A. Hall by Fred Robertson's orchestra was quite a success. The crowd was not as large as usual but was exceedingly jolly. The orchestra supplied a delightful program of music and is to be recommended.

Watch out for the next dance.
Rev. H. Strachan, the rector of this parish, has left for Saskatoon, Sask., where he will attend college. He was accompanied by Mrs. Strachan and Terence.

Mr. Sanger-Davis took the service here Sunday last. Next Sunday there is to be a Thanksgiving service in the church here.

Mrs. Hazard is leaving on tonight's train for Edmonton, after spending several months with her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Smith.

There are lots of threshing outfits in this district but we are beginning to wonder if there will be any grain to thresh. Herman Dewell and Len Kinschall have both bought threshing outfits.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accompanied Hugh Docherty to Brainerd last Sunday. A pleasant day was spent.

Howard Feyer has recovered his bed rest that he lost a few days ago.

Bob Duncan and Bob Rutledge moved to Port St. John last Sunday. Miss Irene Smith celebrated her twenty-first birthday last week. Many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wilson were visited by Mr. Stork a short time ago and presented with a new son. Congratulations.

A RUNAWAY EPIDEMIC
It seems as if a runaway epidemic has broken out in the northern regions of this district. First Matt Badiuk had a runaway while binding his oats, doing considerable damage to his binder.
Then Cecil Leslie had a runaway with the same type of implement. It was caused by a young horse starting up before Cecil was properly installed on the seat. Fortunately damage was confined to a broken pitman.
And another runaway occurred last Wednesday on Bert Timman's farm. A rabbit and a dog chasing it in the standing grain brought about this runaway. Bert had stopped a minute to stook up some bundles in the back-swing a little distance from the binder. Everything was quiet and peaceful till the dog spotted the rabbit and began chasing it towards the

PIPESTONE CREEK

WILL NOT FINISH GRADE THIS FALL

PIPESTONE CREEK, Sept. 30.—A great disappointment was registered in the neighborhood when it was learned that the grade to the ferry would not be finished this fall, owing to lack of funds, which have dwindled to $450. The delegation attending the council meeting on Saturday last was unsuccessful in securing an additional grant owing to the disintegration of the banks to lend money on the strength of a frozen crop.

The lower half of the river, which was completed to a point where the surplus water flows, will be left to the steep bank of the old trail untouched.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan are having another cold bath today, wrestling with rocks, four horses and a freestone in the middle of the river. The work is necessary owing to the appearance of a bar of ice which is threatening to break up the ground whistling.

An energetic crew who sharpen their axes in their spare time and a working foreman have completed the clearing on the grade for as it will go this year in record time. The stumps pulled number 630.

RETURNING OFFICER APPOINTED AT PIPESTONE CREEK

Bill Grant was seen down here looking for a returning officer. Johnny Ryan, the fortunate recipient of the appointment, who had spent that afternoon in the Wapiti jail with rocks and a freestone, was asleep in the bunkhouse in the house of the dream, in which drowning appeared imminent. In an interview Mr. Ryan said that he was not a native of this place but he believed to be his rescuer, and thought it might be Santa Claus asking him how he would like to get $25 for nothing.

The following dialogue then took place:
J. R.: We are going to get that much money.
B. G.: I'm not discussing that. This is Bennett.

R. D.: Yes, he wants to give you a job.
J. R.: I thought you said $25 for nothing?

R. D.: Well, it's the same thing. It's government work. I want to appoint you deputy returning officer.
J. R.: Well, I'll be—

THRESHING GOING STRONG

The palm is still in the hands of the "Palmer" Watson, on Carl Brookes' place, closely followed by "Wapiti" Bill, who is not far behind.

CONGRATULATIONS

The married state congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hosker, who have a daughter, born last week.

CAUGHT SOME SLENDERT TROUT

Mr. Bennett, well-known trader, returned last week from a fishing expedition on Nose Mountain, where some splendid trout were secured. On the road home Mr. Bennett secured a splendid selection of moose hides for the store.

Possibly we may have had some inside information direct from Muscovy, or the Emperor of Ethiopia, or some word that there is really a shortage of wheat in the world, but anyway the little scare about war and starvation flour prices has failed to affect prices at Pipestone Creek, which remain the same to regular customers and to those wishing to stock up with groceries for the winter.

The Wapiti mines are almost booming now and find it difficult to supply the demand. Trout fishing was very busy lately, making two trips a day to Grande Prairie.

Best changes were the read-out of his truck while coming up the hill yesterday. This is a real misfortune during the rush season.

Bert Osborne, the well-known guide, was in Grande Prairie this week undergoing treatment by Dr. Levey, the eye specialist.

Low Whistling was a visitor here today. Mr. Whistling, an experienced mechanic and blacksmith, may be getting a shop at Pipestone Creek during the winter.

Don't forget the closing date, October 14, for The Tribune's special offer of 25 cents for one year. You can subscribe at Pipestone Creek and save postage.

According to reports from Manitoba, present conditions point to a marked general reduction in the number of crosshoppers next year, although concentrations of locusts are expected in certain definite areas.

D. M. Kennedy Appeals, Etc.

Continuing, Mr. Kennedy contended that while the Dominion tariff was higher than it was a few years ago, that considering that the nations of the world had set up a tariff, it was not as much out of line with the tariffs of fifty and sixty years ago.

In the opinion of the speaker, if the Liberals are elected, they will not make any sweeping reductions in the tariff. He said that he took the election promises with a grain of salt.

In discussing tariffs further, Mr. Kennedy said that the raising of the tariff by European countries was due to fear of war. This was especially true of Germany, France, Italy and other countries. The experience of the last war taught these nations the danger of being short of food supplies.

There was another reason for the raising of the tariff, and that was they needed a peasant population to supply the brain and brawn of the nation. The tariff was a means to supply the various industries.

Referring to Mr. Bennett's Social Credit proposals, Mr. Kennedy stated that he had several questions to put to him, the premier. "I did not believe that Mr. Bennett can say the basic dividend is a month. I am still of that opinion."

The speaker stated that he believed that the government was doing a good job. He was of the opinion that there was something in Social Credit. "When I saw the government's policy, I was not sure of the idea that there was not sufficient purchasing power. The point of view of the speaker was that the dollar to stabilize price levels."

WAPITI NEWS

WAPITI, Sept. 27.—Mr. Carl Berg, Eric and Anton Berg were week-end visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Troyer, Sr. are visiting with their son Clarence. They intend staying for several months.

Mr. Troyer, Sr. had quite an exciting experience the second night of his arrival. Whistling picking some berries he was caught by a bear and himself and discovered he was lost. He spent the night in the bush and, though a party was out looking for him most of the night, they failed to find him. Mr. Troyer is 82 years old, but fortunately he did not suffer from any ill after-effects of his adventure.

Mr. Chester Wagner and S. Hudson were over here last week herding cattle which have been pasturing here all summer.

Much interest is evinced over here in the announcement of Deway Kootstra's marriage. Deway has been a resident of this community for the past four years and is at present working in Calgary.

Miss June Rugg was baptised by Rev. H. Strachan at Pipestone Creek last Sunday.

Miss Roberta Watson is back at Wapiti school again for the winter term.

John Isberg was an overnight visitor to his home on Wednesday.

It has been decided to close Sunday school until next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Eng and family have moved to Wapiti where Mr. Eng has a job in an elevator there. We exceedingly regret the fact that he has left us. Mr. Eng is a great asset to any community, to say nothing of the rest of the family.

SEEN AND HEARD AT THE CROSSROADS
Chester Wagner, a very chivalrous to the small children, was seen at the crossroads. He was taking a couple of shots at one very large black bear who became very tame and came within a few feet of him. Somebody decided to rob a bank and get free lodging for the winter? Tom Boring has recently got lost and wishing he were an owl.

PEORIA NEWS
PEORIA, Sept. 27.—The weather is ideal for fall work just at present, although we had our first real hard frost last night, 22nd.

Harvesting is practically over, though there are a few binders still going.

We can already hear the hum of threshing machines. Dan and Fred are now busy with their crops and are all hoping for a few weeks of good weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright and children have moved back into the district. Mrs. Wright is the teacher for the church grade school.

Miss E. Malenkov has also arrived and is teaching the public school. She is boarding with Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Reising.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Laudner moved into their new home just in time to receive the stock, who brought a baby daughter on Monday, September 23. Both mother and babe are doing well.

Mr. T. Newton has been in the district for a day or two on business.

Mr. Dalgleish of Grande Prairie is doing some car business in Peoria. He recently purchased a Chevrolet and Dan Reising has acquired an Oldsmobile. It is rumored that Bill Davis will soon be driving one of Mr. Dalgleish's cars also.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Rottacker and Mrs. Rottacker's sister drove over from Grande Prairie to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. Rottacker and family.

Jack Laughlin, of Florence, Ormenen motored to Spirit River with Jack's brother, Sandy, and there a quiet week-end was held. Congratulations, Jack.

HEALTH
A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE ALBERTA ASSOCIATION OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

To make use of a modern American diet, we would say that many people are diet-conscious. Unfortunately, many of them—indeed it seems to be the majority—are diet-conscious in the wrong way. They want to take all the joy out of eating.

There is no doubt but that a balanced diet is desirable. By "balanced" is meant a diet which is not deficient in any essential and which contains a sufficient amount of all the elements which the body needs to derive from the food that is eaten.

In order that you may eat a balanced diet and so enjoy the benefits which come from such a diet, it is not necessary for you to have a detailed knowledge of foods so as to enable you to list them and then proceed to balance them one against the other.

It is really a simple matter for the diet-conscious person to follow the diet of the majority. Mr. Kennedy said that he believed that the Prime Minister followed the diet of the majority. The diet of the majority is the diet of the Reconstruction Party.

THE SHORT SELLING BOGEY

(From the Grain Trade News of September 7)
That the August future came to a close on Saturday last without any particular excitement in the market and with no material rise in price is a matter of general interest, because of the representations made last fall, and since repeated at intervals, that there had been heavy short selling in an attempt to break the Winnipeg price. It was always improbable that any speculators would sell heavily in this market because the holdings of the government agency had established a virtual "corner." When the charges were first made, the Winnipeg Grain Exchange conducted an enquiry and reported that no evidence of a large short interest existed. Nevertheless, the charge has been reiterated at varying intervals.

If there had been any large short interest in the market, it would have been necessary for the short sellers to make purchases of equal volume before the future in which they were trading had run its course. The only large holder of futures was the government agency and the shorts, therefore, would have found it necessary to buy the greater part of what was required from that agency. As the policy of the government agency was to hold futures, and to make purchases from month to month, only for those having legitimate hedges on wheat, the inevitable result, if there had been a short interest, would have been a wild scramble to cover commitments in the future market.

Other words, prices would have been forced rapidly higher, in actual fact, nothing of the sort occurred. The May future went off the board without the slightest flurry. The July disappeared from month to month. Throughout the month of August the market pursued a leisurely course and while on the final day there was a minor rally in the closing minutes of the session, the action of the market in no way suggested that short sellers were running for cover. It was a quiet story while it lasted, but as events have since proved, the short selling bogey had no real existence.

What One Girl Wore:
By Betty Brownlee

In selecting accessories for the Fall costume it will not be sufficient this season to match them in color alone. Matching fabrics is just as necessary if you would be really smart. You will find that matching hats and gloves, for instance, or gloves and shoes or bags and shoes is identical importance to your new suit or ensemble.

Designers have made this a simple matter this season; you will find that many of the new hats and shoes are in two-tone colors, and materials, so that the same accessories may be worn with different outfits. There are hats and shoes which combine brown and black, beige and brown, grey and black, and so on. Their possibilities are obvious.

New fabric used in gloves includes satin and velvet, so that they can be more readily matched with the hat you will wear. And there's quite a choice for satin handbags as well.

Today we illustrate a few of the new accessories which will add a great deal to the effectiveness of your first Fall clothes.

The hat at the upper part of this panel is in heavy black milliner's satin with a smart triangular inset of stitching. A strip closing inside has a chain with a curved crystal bell hanging from the end.

The gloves are very new and are the perfect complement for those Fall frocks which have long straight sleeves. In ribbed satin, their ruffled cuffs lend a softly flattering touch to the wrists.

The shoes and bag shown below are typical of the new mode to match these accessories, and a glance shows them to be just the right sort of things to wear with either a tailored or more dressy ensemble. Both combine patent leather and antelope effectively. In the bag, the patent leather straps on the antelope flap, and in the shoes the leather is used as a trimming.

Heavy black milliner's satin is used in the bag at the top. It is trimmed with an inset of stitching and a crystal ball which dangles from the steeper. The gloves are in ribbed satin, with daintily ruffled cuffs and matching handbag and shoes shown below are in antelope and patent leather, a new fall combination.

At the 19th Hole

Sunday last was a big day at the golf course. Weather was perfect and the course in excellent shape.

The Dunlop Handicap tournament was run off and when the cards were finally checked over it was found that W. H. Rogers of Beaver Lodge was the winner, with Harry Archibald a close second, at 84 net.

Rogers net score was 81. Geo. Duncan turned in the lowest gross score for a day's play, a 41 and 44.

Mrs. C. C. Fleming, while playing a game with Mrs. B. Bennett this week, turned in her lowest card to date, a 51. This is a new record and will take some beating.

A mixed two-ball foursome will be played Sunday next (September 8), 18 holes. The entrance fee is 25 cents per couple. Best medal score turned in is 70.

For the best score of the day on a sudden hole a prize will be given.

The following is the draw:

Mrs. Orr and A. Wishart vs. Mrs. J. Hunter and J. W. Bird.

Mrs. Hall and R. Waddell vs. Mrs. McLean and J. W. Bird.

Mrs. Edgar and W. R. Roberts vs. Mrs. Fleming and P. Rothwell.

Mrs. Castle and W. R. Roberts vs. Mrs. McKay and C. C. Pawcett.

Mrs. Wishart and P. W. Pickard vs. Mrs. Vatcher and W. O'Neil vs. Mrs. Stickle and H. W. Rogers.

Mrs. Hunter and J. W. Bird vs. Mrs. Nelson and R. H. Vatcher.

Mrs. Teale and Dr. Carroll vs. Mrs. Graham and R. E. Locke.

Mrs. Little and Harry Black vs. Mrs. Gudmundson and Dr. Carlisle.

Mrs. B. Watson and Harvey Black vs. Mrs. Vatcher and W. O'Neil.

Mrs. Simpson and C. Cady vs. Mrs. Delisle and J. M. Crumney.

Mrs. B. Dalgleish and G. Neilson vs. Mrs. Christie and M. Lewis.

Mrs. Carlisle and P. Hickman vs. Mrs. Culver and A. Leechman.

Mrs. J. M. Kerr and Dr. McLean vs. Mrs. Walker and D. Buck.

Mrs. Roberts and W. Turner vs. Mrs. Rogers and Geo. Vart vs. Mrs. Bennett and P. Harrington.

Mrs. Howard and Tom Lowes vs. Mrs. Rutchart and G. W. Simpson.

A short time ago Herman Trella (Whom King) received an official looking document through the mail. At first he thought it was something to do with Agriculture. But, imagine his surprise, upon opening it, it was a challenge from the right-handed players of the R. H. G. C. Club to the left-handers for 18 holes, the losers to put up the dinner.

Herman called a meeting of his left-handed friends to see what should be done about this bold gesture of the right-handers. At first, it was felt they should be ignored entirely. But, after considerable discussion, it was decided to accept the challenge and knock the conceit out of these pompous right-handers. The only change the left-handers demanded being that the last two holes played in reverse—that is the right-handers play left and the left-handers play right.

An account is being rendered by the golf club to D. W. P. for damages to the fairway on seventeen caused by "m" digging holes with a left-handed club.

After many round-table conferences, etc., the date and time were set for 9 a.m., October 22nd.

Permit us to mention, we left-handed players were under the impression this match was to be strictly on the level. But, imagine our dismay when we received the card. Those sly right-handers had gone to an awful lot of expense and trouble, by inserting into their cards for this occasion (with a determination to win that dinner) such internationally known players as Clarence Fleming and Harry Vatcher. We had to admit with the assistance of these two well-known players the prospects of the left-handers winning the games were very remote.

However, we decided to go out to the course early on Sunday morning and get a little practice with right-handed swinging. But, lo and behold! those sly and conniving right-handers had slipped it over us once again. When we arrived at the clubhouse we found them all there in a huddle, taking lessons from the man we had relied upon to assist us (the having played left-handed golf about 55 years ago), a man you all are acquainted with in the person of Sandy Stevenson. Hunt, Sandy, we did not expect you to throw us down!

By this time, after having so refused to even speak to our opponents, and in a dignified manner we picked our own enemies by the signs of the deaf and dumb language. The battle was on.

The first pair to start off were Joe Crumney and Clarence Fleming, and the wonderful drive made by that imported professional was a heart breaker to us. We knew from that drive we were defeated. Joe stopped up to the tee on number one and his drive landed on number three.

After that we left-handers started to count up our nickels to pay for the dinner.

However, sixteen holes were played without a word being spoken until the seventeenth hole, when slurs were exchanged and the rights played left and the holes played right. About this time a wind came up from the S.W. from number 17th and 18th notes, blowing towards the clubhouse.

Judging by the flushed looks on the faces of the ladies assembled, it had not been caused by the wind, but by other disturbances caused by the language used by the right-handers unknown to science.

After all the obstacles we left-handers had to face, all games were keenly contested and we lost by a slight margin. We are convinced if that Bert had been called to Edmonton to advise Mr. Aberhart are entirely unfounded.

AN EARLY EFFORT OF KILLING?

The poem is supposed to be one of Rudyard Kipling's earliest work and was written on a piece of blotting paper.

"As near as I remember,

"'Twas early in September,

Marching along in alcoholic pride,

Without a murmur or a mutter,

I fell into a gutter,

And a dirty pig lay down by my side.

"As I lay there in the gutter,

Without a murmur or a mutter,

A lady passing by was heard to say,

"You can tell a man who boozes

From the company he chooses!"

And a dirty pig got up and walked away!"

STARTS ANOTHER INDUSTRY

J. A. Weicker, manager of the Weicker Hotel, has started another industry in town, in the way of a stock yard, situated just north of the Midland & Pacific elevator. The yard covers an area of 100 by 200 feet, with a covered scale, and chopping mill, with a covered shed for the horse. It is going into the stock-buying business.

PENSON'S "GANG" HERE FRIDAY

Do not forget the dance at the Grand Theatre on Friday, October 4. Penso's orchestra of Grande Prairie will be in attendance. The dance will start immediately after the show, which will be about 10:30.

SHOWING "TRANSIENT LADY"

"Transient Lady," starring Gene Raymond, Henry Hull, Frances Drake, and June Clayworth, will show at the Grand Theatre on Friday, October 4 and 5. This play is taken from the story of the same name written by Rex Posner, which ran as a serial in "Liberty" a few months ago. All the scenes in Hollywood are rich in entertainment value, in its vivid and colorful presentation of the typical Southern home, language, customs, and manner. It is a story of a young girl, a typical Southern belle, who is driven from her home by a wicked stepmother, and who is rescued by a young man who is a typical Southern gentleman.

RUMORS ENTIRELY UNFOUNDED

Mr. Bert Smith arrived home on Tuesday's train, after a short trip to Edmonton. We have it on good authority that the rumors to the effect that Bert had been called to Edmonton to advise Mr. Aberhart are entirely unfounded.

ABOUT 32 CIVIL SERVANTS TO BE SUPERANNUATED

EDMONTON, Oct. 1.—Some 32 civil service members who have reached the age limit will be retired immediately, with but few exceptions, following a cabinet meeting. In a few cases the officials will remain in their positions until the end of the year. Among officials who will retire on superannuation are W. D. Spence, chairman of the Alberta Assessment Commission; John D. Hunt, K.C., clerk of the House of Commons; Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief coroner for the province; James A. Dwyer, member of the Legislative Council; Compensation Board, and E. H. Cogwell, K.C., crown prosecutor here for years.

What has been the result? asks the speaker, who pointed out that as a result of the tariff, the Canadian market has lost a growing market for wheat, timber and other products.

The time has arrived, said Mr. McLean, "when we should send men to Ottawa who believe in lower tariff, and not behind Mr. King and have trade re-established."

Continuing, the speaker observed there never was a third party when the Liberals were in power. "I ask you to check the up and down of the C. C. F. Social Credit and U. F. A. were classed as a protest against conditions brought about by high tariffs, which resulted in 'rad' stagnation."

Mr. McLean then launched out into a discussion of monetary reform. After referring to the huge interest-bearing debts which he said were sinking the nation he declared the solution of this problem lay in the establishing of a publicly owned national bank which could be operated for the benefit of the people by controlling credit and lowering the rate of interest.

Mr. McLean then swung to the discussion of provincial matters. He said that he believed that Mr. Aberhart should be given every opportunity to work out his experiment, and if he was successful no man would dare to assail him in four years time.

The Liberals, said the speaker, believe in monetary reform. Mr. Aberhart has taken one way and the other. He has taken the way of Social Credit candidates in the federal field a playing into the hands of those who want national government.

Those who are absolutely opposed to the setting up of a publicly owned and controlled bank, Mr. McLean charged the relief camps as an insult to every red-blooded Canadian, and suggested that they be closed and the young men confined there put to useful work.

"This," he said, "is the Liberal policy."

In conclusion Mr. McLean said: "I believe that if the Liberal party is returned to power that the Peace River highway will be included in the Trans-Canada highway right through to the British Columbia boundary and on to the coast. I further believe that the coast outlet will be built if the Liberals form the next government. Under Liberal rule I believe it will be possible to get many things needed in this country."

The Liberal candidate pledged himself to work for the interests of the Peace River and fight to end the rule of the "monopoly" and bounty-fed manufacturers who take refuge behind the wall of protection."

A question period followed Mr. McLean's address.

Lowering of Tariffs, Etc.

Mr. McLean agreed that Sir John Macdonald was justified in putting into effect a tariff policy at that time, in view of the fact that the United States had 40,000,000 of a population.

The speaker then turned his attention to the development of the big livestock, which had grown so strong that they now control prices. To avoid the tariff, he said, American companies had established branches in Canada and have been charging American prices plus the tariff. The result is that through the high tariff the Canadian purchasers are paying through the nose.

The speaker presented figures to show that the difference in prices in the United States and Canada on agricultural implements are just the difference in the tariff. Referring to "exorbitant" prices paid for gas, Mr. McLean contended that the only way the price could be lowered was by the reduction of the tariff.

"If high tariff did as any good, I would say let's have it," but it has done nothing but hurt the Canadian people," observed Mr. McLean, who then stated that the "Land of the Rising Sun" was over a period of years.

Continuing, the speaker stated that it was idle to talk about monetary reform if we cannot sell our goods.

He read figures to show the increase in the tariff on various Canadian commodities compared with Mr. King's against British goods, "and this," he said, "against a nation whose markets we sorely need."

"I believe that the golden rule should apply to nations as well as to people," Mr. Bennett's attitude has caused retaliation with the result that Canada has lost a good portion of the wheat market in Britain to Australia and other countries."

Mr. McLean then took up the matter of the tariff against Japan, which, he said, resulted in that country raising its tariff against Canadian commodities. He pointed out that only workers are affected and that they pay dearly for low wages and employ comparatively few workers.

What has been the result? asks the speaker, who pointed out that as a result of the tariff, the Canadian market has lost a growing market for wheat, timber and other products.

The time has arrived, said Mr. McLean, "when we should send men to Ottawa who believe in lower tariff, and not behind Mr. King and have trade re-established."

Continuing, the speaker observed there never was a third party when the Liberals were in power. "I ask you to check the up and down of the C. C. F. Social Credit and U. F. A. were classed as a protest against conditions brought about by high tariffs, which resulted in 'rad' stagnation."

How's Business?

This index is a COMPOSITE of four recognized general business indexes, including those of one leading economic service, two business weeklies, and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It is a United Opinion of leading authorities on the position of business in Canada.

Business Hits a New Recovery High

By David L. Babson

By a recent advance of two points the Composite Index of Business in Canada has made a new recovery high, topping even the previous good level reached in May this year. Current position at 7 per cent below "normal" is 4 per cent above the year ago, 55 per cent above the depression low point of February, 1932, and the highest since May, 1929. As the accompanying chart indicates, the "depression" period is being rounded out with the trend line pushing toward "normal." The next period of "prosperity" will be really under way when this line crosses "normal" in its response to the law of action and reaction.

Full activity got under way somewhat earlier than usual this year. Wheat is the dominating factor at this season. Harvests are nearing completion, export and railroad terminals are bustling with movement. Grain prices are being anxiously watched as they fluctuate with last minute reports which throw a bullish or bearish light on the situation. Currently smaller crops than were expected in the United States, Australia and Argentina leave Canada as the only remaining major grain producer with an exportable surplus despite the extensive rust damage which the Dominion harvest has suffered. Shining the spotlight with wheat in the present business picture are construction and metal mining. The former is making a month-to-month increase of about 50 per cent and last of the level for the period since 1931. Mining is entering its busy period in preparation for winter activity.

The automobile industry is seasonally quiet now as new models are being designed, but the let-down is considerably less than at this time last year in spite of this comparative dullness in one of its chief related lines, iron and steel is being boosted fairly good government contracts. Readers who have merchandise to market widely will be interested to know that employment is making the biggest advance recorded at this season for fourteen years. The dealer who is sitting back because of political aspects or uncertainty is losing out on good sales opportunities already at hand, both in the agricultural areas and many manufacturing works.
